Active Pass' mission is to be the industry leader in the discovery and development of small-molecule drugs that target human ABC transporters. A family of 48 structurally-related molecular pumps, ABC transporters are targets for diseases with substantial markets including age-related macular degeneration, lipid disorders, Alzheimer's disease, and type II diabetes. Our competitive advantage derives from our technology platform that includes a powerful set of reagents for ABC transporter drug discovery, our strong intellectual property position, and from our deep understanding of the role of ABC transporters in normal and disease states.
