Internet and e-mail are magic words in communication. Recombinant protein, monoclonal antibody and gene therapy are a few expressions which witness the progress of health sciences. True to its mission, Gador has actively participated in bringing new knowledge to daily life for more than half a century. By means of Gador's own research, high-quality and price-conscious drugs have been developed. Today, we continue to work with the same will, constantly devoted to the improvement of health. We are pleased to convey through the Internet detailed and objective data about Gador and its line of products. It reflects the image of a company sensitive to changes and aimed at the future, which strengthens the confidence among professionals and patients. With a help of the Internet we will navigate through this information together.
