NeXstar Pharmaceuticals, Inc., is an integrated biopharmaceutical company engaged in the discovery, development, manufacture and marketing of proprietary pharmaceutical products to treat life-threatening and other serious oncological, hematological and infectious diseases. NeXstar Pharmaceuticals employs a broad range of proprietary technologies in the discovery and formulation of pharmaceutical products, including the Company's liposome drug delivery technology; a powerful combinatorial chemistry technology known as the SELEX process that rapidly identifies novel oligonucleotide compounds with potential therapeutic and diagnostic benefits; and Evolutionary Chemistry, designed to rapidly discover small organic molecules to serve as orally available drugs. The Company's technologies have produced two approved drugs and several drug candidates that are in clinical or preclinical development and have provided the basis for a significant pipeline of drug development candidates.
