Today, OncogeneScience® based in Cambridge MA (at the original Applied bioTechnology facility) develops, manufactures, and markets high quality, ready-to-use cancer reagent systems to commercial and clinical research customers worldwide to further establish the clinical utility of these microtiter assays. Its core competencies include unparalleled microtiter plate assay expertise and a significant worldwide patent estate (e.g., HER-2/neu, ras, p53 and Retinoblastoma).

It is the goal of OncogeneScience® to develop, manufacture, and market novel FDA-cleared and FDA-approved oncology assays for the clinical immunodiagnostic market to enhance the care and treatment of cancer patients worldwide.
